

The Ultimate Picture Palace

Jeune Street, Cowley Road, Oxford OX4 1BN

Sunday 24th May, 5.00pm

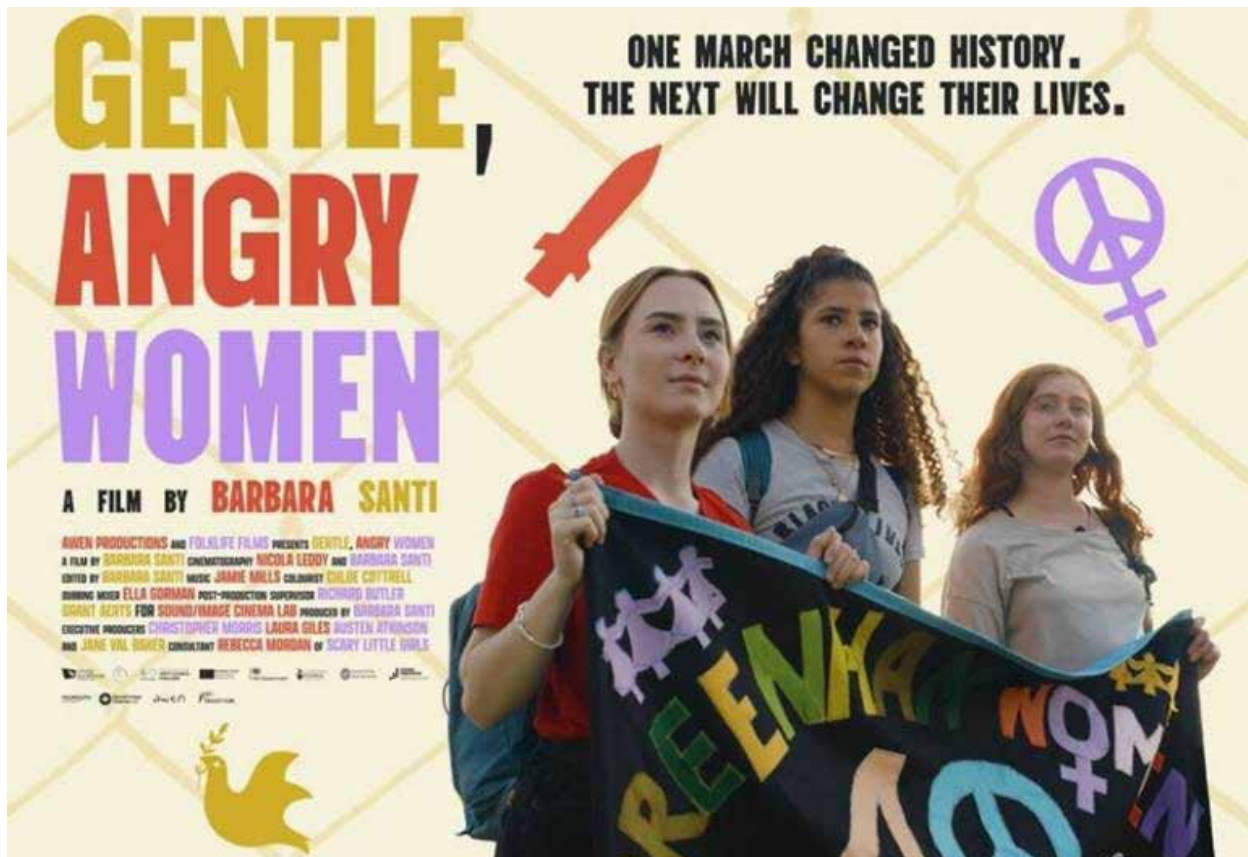

International Women's Day for Peace and Disarmament

A screening of Barbara Santi's seminal film, 'Gentle, Angry Women'

A new generation of young female activists uncovers a powerful, often overlooked chapter of women's history and the alarming reality of British nuclear armament. As they navigate the complexities of teenage life and social activism, three young women – Poppy, Xanthe, and Evie – embark on a journey of discovery, following in the footsteps of over 30,000 women who forty years earlier united in peaceful, liberating protest, the remarkable Greenham Common Women's Peace Movement.

This coming-of-age documentary, driven by intergenerational dialogue, bridges past courage and present hope, speaking to the need for action and change.

This screening will be accompanied by a Q&A, Greenham Women, and even a special appearance by Peggy Seeger, who wrote the song 'Carry Greenham Home'.

Based just off Cowley Road, the Ultimate Picture Palace is easy to find. There is no off-street parking, so we recommend a car free visit if possible.

However, there are two blue badge disabled parking spaces directly opposite the cinema.

The number 1 and 5 bus from Oxford city centre stop right outside and there are numerous bike parks very close by.

Peak Prices (Friday Evenings + Weekends) Adults – £11.90

Senior/Student/Claimant – £10.50 Members get £2 off above prices

15-25 Members – £7.00 Child – £8.00 Family ticket – £31.80

<https://uppcinema.com/show/the-drama/>